Results and Indicators for Development

General Introduction

This guidance for action design has been developed by INTPA Unit D4 “Performance, Results and Evaluation; Internal Communication, Knowledge Management and Collaborative Methods” jointly with INTPA Thematic Units.

It is addressed to all colleagues involved in the preparation of action documents and project documents and offers a handy tool to develop solid logical framework matrices. It identifies clear and measurable results statements that are in line with INTPA policy priorities, as well as with the UN Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), along with a range of good indicators to monitor progress. It will be updated regularly to reflect evolving priorities.

Its main objective is to enhance the quality of INTPA interventions – both in terms of design as well as of monitoring and reporting in the course of implementation.

The need for this type of guidance was identified in the framework of the results-reporting process led by INTPA D4, as well as through its systematic review of all action documents presented to Quality Review Group meetings.

The present guidance covers INTPA strategies in various sectors, and presents for each sector:

1. EU policy priorities: a short narrative explaining EU policy priorities and commitments as articulated in key policy and strategic documents.

2. Results Chain: a diagram showing the main results (impact, outcomes, outputs) that EU development interventions are expected to achieve in the sector, reflecting EU policy priorities and commitments.

3. List of Sector Indicators: examples of measurable indicators associated to each result statement are provided, that may be used in Logframe Matrices at project/ programme level.

You can access the online Sector Indicator Guidance at <https://europa.eu/capacity4dev/results-and-indicators>. For further information and/or to provide feedback please contact INTPA Unit 04 at INTPA-EU-RESULTS@ec.europa.eu

1. EU Policy Priorities

Rapid urbanisation means that global challenges such as poverty, environmental degradation, climate change, conflict and rapid population growth, including through migration and forced displacement, are to be dealt with in urban locations. At the same time, this rapid urbanisation makes it easier for cultures to mix and for knowledge to be exchanged, both of which are factors that promote innovation. Well-managed urban and territorial development can thus offer innovative solutions for these global challenges, turning them into opportunities for sustainable development.

The importance of cities and local authorities in the development process has been highlighted in recent international and EU policy documents. Sustainable Development Goal (SDG) number 11 of the UN 2030 Agenda aims to 'Make cities inclusive, safe, resilient and sustainable'. Many other sustainable development goals have clear urban dimensions.

The Urban Agenda for the EU also reiterates the principles for sustainable urban development contained in the sustainable development goals.

The EU's external policy has supported urban development for many years, but mainly from a sectoral perspective (focusing on areas such as infrastructure, water and sanitation, waste management). The European Consensus on Development, between the EU and its Member States, stresses the need to focus more on cities and local authorities as important actors in achieving the sustainable development goals. This requires the EU to promote a more integrated approach to urban development, including by strengthening the development-humanitarian nexus. This can be achieved by involving the private sector and by finding additional sources of funding for EU investments.

EU Strategic Priorities

In 2018, the SWD on the EU's Cooperation with Cities and Local Authorities in Third Countries was adopted. The support by the EU external cooperation policy to the planning, financing, and governance of cities is accompanied by an integrated and territorial approach to urban development, with a specific focus on the following four areas:

- Good urban governance at various levels of administration (local, regional, national) and between different actors (elected officials, civil servants, citizens' groups etc.). This fosters civic engagement and ensures inclusive participation in integrated planning and public finance management.
- The social dimension of urban development through inclusive and safe cities in order to better address urban poverty, inequalities, food insecurity, malnutrition, forced displacement, migration and social exclusion.
- Green and resilient cities through the sustainable use of natural resources and protection and enhancement of natural capital (energy efficiency and biodiversity in cities) and the transition towards a low-carbon, climate resilient and circular economy. This reduces the risk of and vulnerability to natural disasters and the ecological, economic and health impacts of pollution.
- Prosperous and innovative cities with a focus on sustainable growth and job creation, fostering a responsible business environment and making it attractive to invest in the 'green economy' and in clean technology.

Please see other INTPA sector guidances for more information on results and indicators in the field of forced displacement, food and nutrition security and sustainable agriculture, as well as nutrition.
