

What can the Poverty and
Environment Partnership
(PEP) do?

What can the PEP do together?

- What are the unique strengths of PEP?
  - It is a sustainable organization and has a long track record
  - Has a good reputation
  - Good networking and sharing of experiences across the world
  - Good links with the coalition
  - Can influence the SDGs
- What are the most effective ways which PEP can provide value added?
  - Providing evidence
  - Building capacity via the internet and face to face interactions
  - Facilitating implementation via identification of and assessing gaps

- Where and how can PEP provide evidence on the poverty and environment links?
  - Global, national or local level? Well represented
  - Peer reviewed, published research?

Studies and documentation have been produced and can be produced by PEP
  - Lessons learned and best practices?

More concrete integrated urban examples are required.
  - Experiential peer to peer learning? Internet and Webinars and face to face

- Should PEP support capacity building?
- Should PEP focus on implementation?

How?

Yes via the Coalition. Some countries where local government is not strong civil society must be empowered.

- What value added can PEP provide to facilitate implementation? Gap analyses. Scientific critical mass to draw scientific conclusions.

NB. Strengthening social capital is essential.
