he scientific online journal Synergies - Educative Dialogues for Social Transformation is a scientific online journal with peer-review. It's the first scientific journal about Development Education in Portugal. With five issues, we intend this journal to be a platform for conceptual, methodological and practical discussion and reflection on DE, opened to the international scientific community and to those who work in the field on areas such as social sciences and humanities. We expect it to become an innovative platform integrating and combining different visions, voices and practices and reflecting the diversity and the appropriateness of this area in contexts within and outside Europe, particularly on the domains of DE, Global Citizenship, Development and Cooperation.	To address the growing need of connecting investigation and action in this field, the general objective of the project Development Education Synergies: strengthening the link between research and action in DE in Portugal is to promote the enhancement of Development Education in Portugal and the quality of its intervention. To this end, the project intends to link Higher Education Institutions (HEIs) and Civil Society Organisations (CSOs), and their staff, researchers, teachers and students, in a collaborative learning process, with a view to create an institutional dialogue and cooperation dynamics that shall strengthen the synergies and complementarities surrounding research and action in the Development Education field.
