

Key Monitoring Questions and Issues for the TOR

1. To what extent does the programme design remain relevant and feasible?	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Do programme inputs, activities and strategies target the needs marginalised girls and boys? - Do marginalised girls, boys and their care givers perceive the programme purpose and results as relevant to their needs and interests?
2. To what extent are programme results being achieved?	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Are expected results for children being achieved on time? - Have possible negative effects of programme results on specific groups of children been clearly identified? - Is it likely that programme results achievement will contribute to improved rights realisation for targeted girl and boy children?
3. To what extent is the programme being managed efficiently?	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Are human resources sufficient and is expertise in child rights adequate on the programme to effectively mainstream child rights? - Are financial resources sufficient to implement the programme strategy and fulfil programme commitments to targeted children? - Are risks, with regard to child rights realisation, appropriately analysed and risk mitigation strategies effectively implemented? - Are children regularly consulted on programme relevance and progress as a key stakeholder group?
4. To what extent are sustainability issues being effectively addressed?	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Is ownership for child rights being effectively promoted through awareness raising, policy dialogue and capacity building initiatives? - Are strategies for the capacity building of duty bearers to respect, promote and fulfil child rights, proving effective? - Is it likely that human and financial resources necessary to fulfil child rights will continue to be available after programme completion?